

American Association of Hispanics in Higher Education, Inc.

Mrinal Sinha is an assistant professor in psychology at California State University, Monterey Bay (CSUMB) a Hispanic Serving Institution on the central coast of California. He received his B.A. in social and behavioral sciences at CSUMB in 2001. He received his M.S. and Ph.D. in social psychology at the University of California, Santa Cruz (UCSC) under the mentorship of Dr. Aída Hurtado in 2007. Since then, he has worked as adjunct faculty at UCSC (from 2007-2011) teaching freshman level writing courses and courses in social psychology (both upper and lower division). He was also an adjunct faculty member at CSUMB, teaching for the division of social, behavioral, and global studies and the department of psychology (from 2008-2011). His research interests include educational success with Latina/o students, the racialization of masculinities, and feminist consciousness.